TIME'S MANY CHANGES

OLD-TIMER BECOMES REMINIS-CENT ON THE SUBJECT.

Extinction of the Wild Pigeon on a
Par With That of the Buffalo—
But the Sparrow Still Is With Us.

"Time does change the order of things," said one of a number of elderly men who were gathered in a grocery store over at the Cape one evening last week, "and some of the changes that are hardly noticed or even known by most of the younger people of today are in many ways remarkable."

"Take, for instance, the wild pigeon that was to be found in almost every patch of woods in the state when I was a boy; there is not one to be found in the entire country east or west of the Rockies today, and one of the departments at Washington has offered a large reward for anyone who will produce or tell where a nest of the wild pigeons can be found."

"As I said they were very plentiful in these parts back in the '50s and many were found in the '60s and early '70s, but today not one can be found in the United States. The cause of all this lies in the fact that many people carried on the business of trapping them and out in Scarboro a man by the name of Plummer did this to such an extent that he came to be known as 'Pigeon Dave' Plummer. The traps were so arranged that hundreds of the birds were caught at one spring of the trap, and when one comes to think that this business was carried on all over the country, it is easy to see how in years their numbers dwindled and finally died out altogether."

"On the other hand," said another of the party, "comparatively a few years ago we had never heard of such a bird as the English sparrow, and today they are as thick as white weed in a poor man's pasture."

"Speaking of white weed," said the first speaker, "reminds me of the time I went to school way up on what is now Highland avenue, and white weed was just making its appearance in the fields. It was not very plentiful, however, and I remember that a farmer named Dyer told us boys that he would give us a cent a dozen for all we could pick in his field, for by that means it was kept from going to seed. Look at the fields nowadays. If one could get a cent a dozen for it now, a person could get rich in the course of a couple of years and not have to work but a week or two each year at that. Yes, sir, there have been many changes in such things as these during the last 20 or more years, and are still going on."—Portland Express and Advertiser.

Science Museum.

Several groups of objects of special interest as illustrating appliances used in war by sea, land, and air have been brought together in two rooms in the Science museum, South Kensington, London. Perhaps the most striking of these are the series of models of types of British warships and of British and foreign aircraft. Among the former are models of several well-known ships, including a model of his majesty's ship Good Hope and one of the dreadnaught battleship his majesty's ship Monarch, the latter recently added to the collection on loan. Submarines are represented by drawings and photographs. With several of the models in the aeroplane section there are full-size engines and parts. The enemy's aircraft are represented by a general model of the Rumpier-Taube monoplane, which was the chief German army machine at the beginning of the war, and a diagram drawing of a Zeppelin.

Jam and "Bully Beef" for British.

The amount of jam that the British soldier is eating on this campaign has attracted the notice of all the foreign newspaper correspondents, American, Belgian and French, who have seen for the first time the British soldier in war. The supply of this particular delicacy seems to have been unlimited. With jam, "bully beef," biscuits and tea, the British soldier seems able to go anywhere and do anything. No doubt jam is excellent food and, to a certain extent, I fancy that it replaces fresh vegetables. The first campaign in which jam played a noticeable part was the second Boer war.

In Peninsular and Crimean days freshly killed beef and biscuits were usual rations of the troops; but the travelling field kitchens on wheels which now accompany all regiments and batteries have improved the British soldier's lot.—Exchange.

A Good Name.

All great men have children named after them. There was a time in America when Washington and Jefferson enjoyed, at the baptismal font, a standing not less regular than that of John, or Henry, or James. Now it appears that Frenchmen, instead of naming their boys Philippe, Gaston, Antoine, are calling them Joffre. Figures gathered in one town show that between August 2 and December 15 no less than twenty-one fathers of families bestowed this name upon their sons. A plumber in the same town desired to have his little daughter called Joffrette. But the town clerk declined to admit the name to the official register. "And yet," says a French commentator, "it's a pretty name enough!"

FRUIT LAXATIVE FOR SICK CHILD

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver and bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs" that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Adv.

Canadian Wheat to Feed the World

The war's fearful devastation of European crops has caused an unusual demand for grain from the American Continent. The people of the world must be fed and there is an unusual demand for Canadian wheat. Canada's invitation to every industrious American is therefore especially attractive. She wants farmers to make money and happy, prosperous homes for themselves while helping her to raise immense wheat crops.

You can get a Homestead of 160 acres FREE and other lands can be bought at remarkably low prices. Think of the money you can make with wheat at its present high prices, where for some time it is liable to continue. During many years Canadian wheat fields have averaged 20 bushels to the acre—many yields as high as 45 bushels to the acre. Wonderful crops also of Oats, Barley and Flax.

Mixed farming is fully as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses, full of nutrition, are the only food required either for beef or dairy purposes. Good schools, markets convenient, climate excellent.

Military service is not compulsory in Canada, but there is an extra demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for the war. The Government this year is urging farmers to put extra acreage into grain.
